Description

"Hurry, hurry, Mary dear
fall is over, winter's here.
Not a moment to be lost,
in a minute we get frost!
In an hour we get snow!

Drift like houses! Ten below!" So begins this hilarious nonsense rhyme by a much-loved writer who won wide critical acclaim and a devoted audience during his lifetime. Now this poem has been illustrated in full color by Erik Blegvad, an old friend of Bodecker's and the only person besides himself that he would allow to interpret work.

Poor Mary is the person who must make all the preparation for winter in a frenzied crescendo of activity -- "Churn the butter, smoke the hams, can tomatoes, put up jams" -- leading up to a very funny, very fitting, ending.

Illuminated by Bodecker's rare imagination, his glorious sense of the absurd, and his firsthand knowledge of country living, all beautifully matched by Erik Blegvad's wonderful watercolor paintings, this is a book to delight young readers and their elders again and again.

Insightful reviews

Larissa Langsather: This is a funny book. My girls say, "He is a bad husband!" when we read this book.

Marisa: Great illustrations showing Mary storing the harvest and preparing the homestead for winter. It was great for the kids to see some of the same things we do at our house as winter approaches.

Purple Iris: This is such an odd, little book for kids!

Gracie: i admire the illustrations during this booklet and the way during the pages you will find how the wintry weather is approaching. i love the rhyming and the humor, too.

Maija: i am hoping to take advantage of this for a fall tale time. i believe children will love it and oldsters could be in at the joke.

Greta: Funny!
