Insightful reviews

Lyric: A fun adventure in the Buffy universe. It was a decent story, offering an alternate version of the events that follow the close of the Sunnydale Hellmouth.

Jessica: For any Buffy fans this is a MUST read. I almost died when the show ended because I was so hooked. This was a wonderful follow up, Holder stays true to Joss' characters and the book is a wonderful follow up to Buffy's life as she leaves Sunnydale and has to rebuild her life and deal with the consequences of the Hellmouth closing.

Matt Wood: I find one of the worse Buffy writers is Nancy Holder. I always found she never really understands the characters at all or even researches into the show and always gets a lot of things mixed up or just wrong. Lacks originality and depth in comparison to the rest of the books and the show. All the books I've read by her just end up annoying me more than anything. Probably being too harsh, but I just don't agree with her when it comes to the Buffy verse.

Amanda Liston: As a hardcore Buffy fan I could not stand this book. The writing is horrible. She randomly uses word-for-word strains from the show in it and it is tremendously obvious. Rather than stepping into the character's heads and writing of their voices she lifts traces from random episodes to fill her extraordinary storyline. I have learned a lot from larger fan fiction on LJ!

Allan: I cherished this a lot. Integrates with AtS season 5. Doesn't clash with Darkish Congress, simply because which can take place every time within the future. FYI, I love Holder's kind of writing anyway.

Heather: The publication reads like undesirable fanfic. The idea that it was once good, yet very simplistic writing. Written for a ten-year-old!
